WE ARE WHO WE ARE

Rooted in compassion. Guided by community priorities.

Every community holds people with the determination to build better lives. Access to safe water, reliable health information, practical skills and a healthier environment can help that determination become opportunity.

Serene Future Foundation is a nonprofit foundation registered in Ghana, founded by Edwin Dela to help bring these possibilities within reach.

Our purpose is to work alongside communities to develop practical initiatives in water and sanitation, women and children's health, environmental sustainability and youth skills.

Local knowledge and participation are central to our approach. We seek to understand what matters to a community, identify suitable solutions and plan for benefits that continue beyond a project's launch.

Our commitment is to healthier lives, greater opportunity and communities equipped to shape their own future.

Our Founder's Story

A Personal Journey into Service.

Some journeys stay with us long after we return home.

For Edwin Dela, travelling through Ghana brought him closer to children walking long distances for water before school, girls navigating menstruation without essential support, mothers with limited health information, and young people whose ambitions needed opportunity.

Behind every challenge was a person with a dream and a future that mattered. Their resilience stayed with him, along with a question: What can I do, with what I have, to help someone else move forward?

Raised in a humble, compassionate home, Edwin had learned that service begins when another person's struggle matters enough for us to act.

Serene Future Foundation is that belief brought to life.

It is a commitment to bring people, knowledge and resources together so communities can build healthier lives, greater opportunity and a more resilient future.

Our hope is that one day, someone will look back and say:
"Serene Future Foundation helped us believe again. They were part of our turning point."

That is the story we are building, one project, one life and one community at a time.

- Community Ownership
  Local priorities and participation at the heart of each initiative.
- Sustainability
  Planning for continued use, care and long-term value.
- Partnership
  Shared responsibility, complementary expertise and mutual trust.

Our Mission

To strengthen communities in Ghana through safe water, health education, youth skills and practical climate action.

Our Vision

A Ghana where people can live with dignity, stay healthy, develop their potential and shape a more resilient future.

Stronger foundations for everyday life.

Water, health, learning, opportunity and the environment influence one another. Addressing these connected needs can help communities build a more secure and hopeful future.

FOCUS AREAS

Four connected priorities. One shared purpose.

Our programme priorities address essential needs that influence how people live, learn and pursue opportunity.

Water Access and WASH
Safe water, sanitation and hygiene for healthier homes, schools and communities.

Health and Dignity
Health education and appropriate support for women, girls and children, with particular attention to menstrual health and family wellbeing.

Climate and Sustainability
Community action for cleaner surroundings, environmental care, climate awareness and practical clean energy solutions.

Youth Skills and Opportunity
Digital, communication, enterprise and life skills that help young people put their potential into practice.

Each area has a distinct role. Together, they support a future in which people have greater confidence, capability and opportunity.

WATER ACCESS & WASH SOLUTIONS

Clean Water Is the Beginning of Dignity, Health and Opportunity

A reliable water source can give a child more time to learn, a family greater peace of mind and a community a stronger foundation for health.

Our water, sanitation and hygiene (WASH) priorities focus on communities and schools where access to safe, reliable water remains a challenge.

Programme Priorities

- Borehole development, repair and rehabilitation.
- Water access for schools and underserved communities.
- Handwashing facilities and hygiene education.
- Safe water storage and sanitation awareness.
- Maintenance planning and local responsibility for water facilities.

Long-term value depends on water quality, functioning facilities and clear arrangements for their care. These considerations belong at the centre of project planning.

The Change We Seek

More reliable access to safe water, healthier daily practices and less time lost to collecting water.

WOMEN, GIRLS & CHILDREN'S HEALTH AND DIGNITY

Health, Dignity and Confidence Should Never Be Out of Reach

Clear health information and appropriate support can help women, girls and families make informed choices and seek help with confidence.

Our priorities centre on menstrual health education, maternal and child health awareness, and practical support that respects people's privacy and circumstances.

Programme Priorities

- Menstrual health education for girls.
- Access to sanitary pads and dignity supplies.
- Maternal and child health awareness.
- Preventive health education and community outreach.
- STI's & Other sensitive areas of health education for the youths
- Support initiatives for maternity and children's wards.

Sensitive health topics deserve respectful conversation, cultural understanding and appropriate professional guidance.

The Change We Seek

Greater health knowledge, confidence to ask questions and access to support that helps women, girls and children navigate everyday life with dignity.

CLIMATE ACTION & SUSTAINABILITY

Protecting the Environment Also Protects Lives, Learning and Livelihoods

Clean surroundings, healthy trees and reliable light can improve the places where people live, learn and work. Climate pressures and environmental challenges make care for these shared spaces increasingly important.

Our priorities connect practical community action with environmental awareness and long-term care.

Programme Priorities

- Tree planting with plans for continued care and growth.
- Community and beach clean-ups, with responsible waste disposal.
- Recycling and plastic waste education.
- School environmental clubs and climate education.
- Solar lighting initiatives for schoolchildren and learning spaces.

Lasting value comes from what continues: trees that survive, cleaner spaces that are maintained and equipment that remains useful.

The Change We Seek

Cleaner surroundings, stronger environmental awareness and communities better equipped to care for their environment and respond to climate pressures.

YOUTH SKILLS & FUTURE READINESS

Young People Need Skills, Confidence and Opportunity

Young people bring ideas, energy and ambition to their communities. Relevant training and mentorship can help them develop the confidence and practical ability to pursue those ambitions.

Our priorities focus on skills that can be applied in work, enterprise, leadership and everyday life.

Programme Priorities

- Digital skills and basic computer literacy.
- Communication, teamwork and public speaking.
- Career preparation, mentorship and coaching.
- Entrepreneurship and financial literacy.
- Leadership and problem-solving.

The value of training lies in what a young person can do with it. Practical tasks, opportunities to apply learning and appropriate follow-up are central to our approach.

The Change We Seek

Young people with stronger capabilities, greater confidence and clearer pathways to contribute to their communities and pursue opportunity.

HOW WE WORK

Our Implementation Approach

Our implementation approach connects community knowledge with clear planning, suitable expertise and learning from results.

We Listen and Assess

Understand local priorities through conversations with community members, schools, families and relevant local leaders.

We Plan and Agree

Define the project scope, intended results, budget, responsibilities and arrangements for continued use.

Deliver Together

Bring appropriate expertise and resources to the work, with clear responsibilities and respectful community participation.

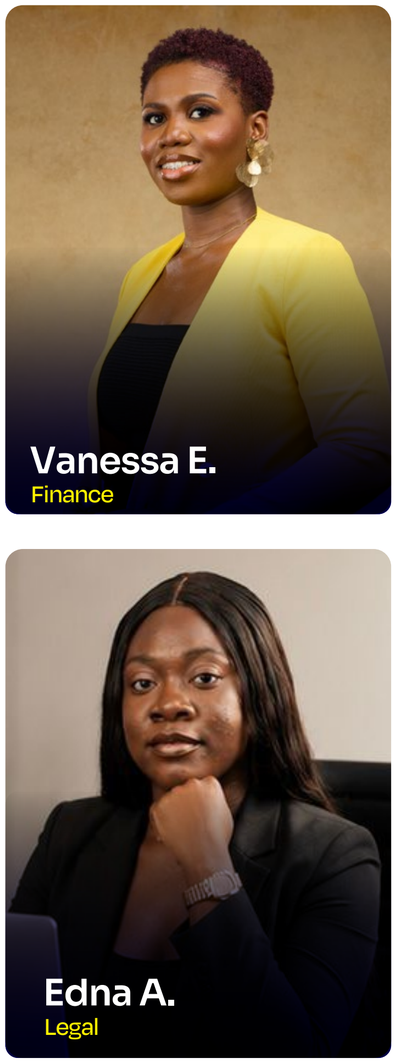

Review and Sustain

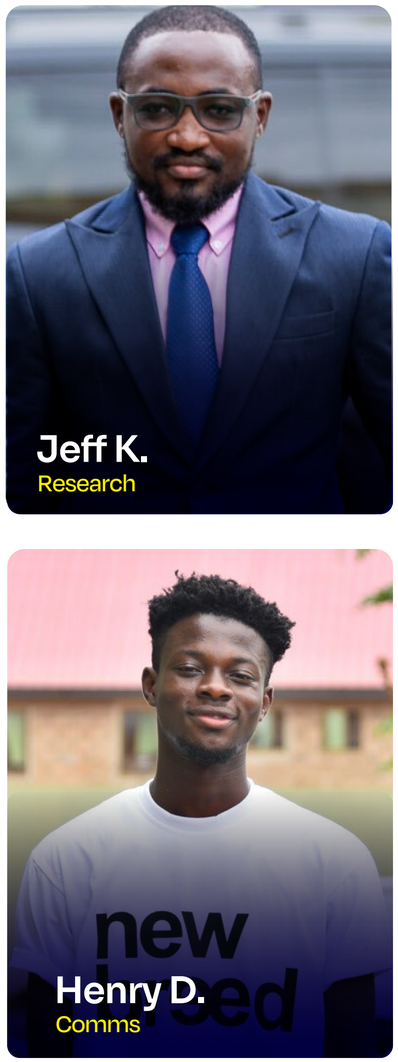

Document progress, assess results, learn from feedback and support arrangements for maintenance or continued application.

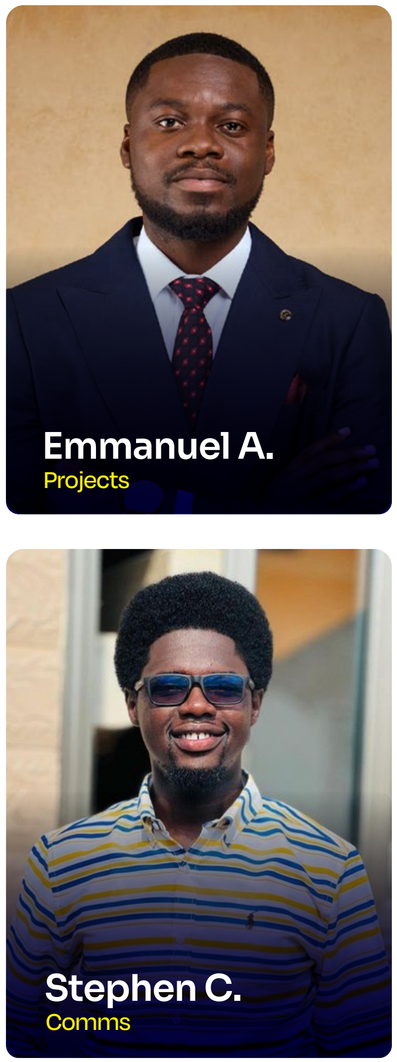

This approach is designed to give communities a meaningful role and partners a clear understanding of how an initiative will be delivered and assessed.

IMPACT and ACCOUNTABILITY

Our Commitment to Measurable Impact

Trust is built through honest information, responsible use of resources and a clear account of what a project achieves.

Our commitment is to distinguish completed work, activity in progress and future plans, and to communicate challenges alongside progress.

Our Reporting Priorities

- Reach: Who participated or gained access to a service.
- Delivery: What was completed, where and when.
- Results: What changed, using measures suited to the project.
- Resources: Expenditure against the agreed budget, supported by appropriate records.
- Learning: Feedback, challenges and improvements for future work.
- Continuity: Arrangements for continued use, maintenance or follow-up.

Meaningful measures reflect the purpose of each initiative: functioning water facilities, learning demonstrated, trees surviving or skills applied.

At the start of each partnership, we will agree the project responsibilities, reporting expectations and evidence needed to assess progress.

Our aim is to make progress understandable, resources traceable and lessons useful.

Corporate Partnerships

Shared purpose. Practical community value.

A worthwhile partnership starts with a community priority and a clear understanding of what each organisation can contribute.

For companies, our four focus areas offer opportunities to connect relevant expertise, resources and community commitments with clearly defined initiatives in Ghana.

Ways a Partnership Can Take Shape

Project partnerships: A defined initiative with an agreed scope, budget and intended results.

Technical collaboration: Relevant expertise, training, equipment or professional input.

Employee engagement: Suitable opportunities for staff to contribute skills or participate in community activities.

Learning and mentorship: Practical connections that strengthen opportunities for young people.

Each proposal can set out the community need, the Foundation's role, delivery responsibilities and how progress will be assessed.

The strongest partnerships give everyone a clear role and keep community priorities at the centre of the work.

Let’s turn shared purpose into brighter futures for communities across Ghana.
